

September 23, 2016

To Whom It May Concern:

Casey Vassios worked under my supervision from January, 2016 through July, 2016 at California State University, San Bernardino. His diligence and attention to detail are only two of the qualities that made him stand out among the hundreds of student assistants who have passed through my department over the years. His congenial nature and positive attitude made him a valuable asset to our team.

Casey possesses a wide variety of technical skills. His techniques of problem solving proved extremely useful in our efforts to serve faculty, students and staff across campus. Many of our staff turned to him to solve issues ranging from simple computer-user problems to highly technical operational conflicts.

I strongly feel that Casey would be an excellent addition to any team. If you care to inquire further about his experience or have any questions, do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Michael J. Casadonte
Web Development Manager, Information Technology Services
California State University, San Bernardino
(909) 537-5086
mcasadon@csusb.edu